Programme

We are all different, with various abilities, mentalities, and life experiences that greatly influence our language learning. Different learners and expectations can be challenging for language teachers, who are just as diverse.

How can we turn this diversity to our advantage; how can learning and teaching be more engaging and effective, more inspiring and motivating, contrary to - or as a result of - these differences? Let us explore together the opportunities underlying the differences among learners and teachers. The conference provides help, methods, techniques, and ideas that you can easily put into practice.

Following the opening plenary, lectures and workshops in English, German, and Hungarian will be held in seven sections. Over the course of the event our visitors will be able to gather information about the offers and latest editions of language book publishers, exam centres, and other language service providers exhibiting at the event. The closing plenary will be followed by a raffle, where prizes offered by our sponsors will be drawn.
